MINISTER CAESAR ATTENDS GLOBAL FOOD CONFERENCE IN VIETNAM

Minister of Agriculture Hon. Saboto Ceasar is currently in Hanoi, Vietnam for The One Planet Network's Fourth Global Conference on Sustainable Food Systems Program.

The three-day conference, which convened on Monday, April 24, will focus on the transformation needed to enable food supply systems to overcome the overlapping and interrelated crises globally.

Until the end of the week, stakeholders from diverse regions will discuss building sustainable, resilient, healthy and inclusive agrifood systems.

The meeting was jointly organized by the United Nations Environment Program (UNEP), in conjunction with other governmental and civil society organizations, including the Ministry of Agriculture and Livestock of Costa Rica.

Apart from the conference, multi-lateral discussions are taking place. Hon. Saboto Caesar. Minister Caesar and colleague Ministers from several continents met on Monday with the Prime Minister of Vietnam to dialogue on food production systems.

The One Planet Network is a global community of practitioners, public policymakers and experts, including representatives of government, business, civil society, academia and international organizations, which promote sustainable production and consumption.
